With F.M.L.

Andrew Cordier, next year retiring as president of Columbia University, says the "generation gap" is a myth.

This follows what a series of essays by Yoe High School juniors published here this spring suggested. They were asked to comment on Emerson's view that a country is judged by the type of man it develops.

President Cordier is a former assistant secretary to the United Nations and earlier president of Manchester College, North Manchester, Ind.

Further, a study by American Council of Education shows some 170,000 freshmen in college quite like their parents, moderate to conservative, one in 20 describing himself a radical, either wing.

NOW-NOW-NOW

These items are particularly interesting to 111 because I went to school under a superintendent once athletic director under Cordier at Manchester College. A number of the college's graduates taught in that system in Northern Indiana.

Cordier's comments reflect that Midwest background, extended into secretarial service in the UN and finally to prestigious Columbia, once headed by President Eisenhower.

And the statistics prove him out.

We again say the gap is exaggerated by the 1960s attention to the bizarre, taken out of perspective by unprecedented affluence and mobility among the youngsters polled as 95 percent moderate to conservative. Youth has its fling, once every generation or so. It was the "Roaring Twenties", wasn't it? And the "Scintillating Sixties", wasn't it?

Over-attention to youth's minority drew over-reaction and undeserved condemnation of youth's majority, except where the Vietnam War was concerned.

Another poll, cited the other day, shows about one-third of youths questioned would not have served during World War II against Germany and other Axis powers.

We don't know how this compares with numbers who would not or did not serve in Vietnam, but it shows youth thinks war is no solution to international problems. It shows idealism, some lack of belief in the country's history and considerable, predictable immaturity.

It may also show about one-third of our youth are somewhat estranged from national values considered worth dying for, whether in Southeast Asia or Europe, whether totalitarianism of left or right.

This generation is serious, like their parents. And they are not as endowed with "blind patriotism", our "country right or wrong", because they have had the education and means to travel and attire themselves with little concern to means.

In the vernacular, "they've had it good." And yet they are not likely any more idealistic than any previous generation.

Youth sees plenty at home worthy of fighting before any more foreign wars. What they fail to know, but vaguely are aware of, is that no country takes on monumental change like this one without press censorship or government control.

But youth is concerned. They've been told "war is hell." All of which shows the kids are listening. And that Andrew Cordier is right.

CofC Board Resolves Against Dam

Wilburn Beckhusen, chairman of the Bell-Milam Land & Water Rights Assoc., drew a unanimous Cameron Chamber board vote for a resolution opposing the proposed Cameron Reservoir.

The Chamber heard a brief presentation by Beckhusen presenting the Water Rights Assoc. objections to the dam, proposed for construction sometime in the 1990's.

Milam County commissioners, Cameron Independent School Board and other organizations, have approved similar resolutions opposing construction of a dam some 25 years in the future which would inundate about 45,000 acres of land along the Little River and San Gabriel Rivers and Brushy Creek.

It would be built under proposed water programs of the Texas Water Development Board, a state agency proposing construction of a series of dams by 2020 which would distribute water throughout South and West Texas.

Beckhusen said the Water Rights group did not oppose the intent of the Texas Water Plan, which will probably be presented for public vote in 1971, but felt a water storage dam could be built in other areas which want dams.

He said much of the proposed reservoir would mean a shallow lake of four feet in depth which would extend approximately from Rogers to Sharp along the Little River and San Gabriel River.

He said Brazos River Authority has questioned the advisability of the lake, because of cost of its water and because Laneport is scheduled for construction.

Beckhusen presented Chamber directors with brochures produced by the Water Rights Assoc. a year ago, showing documentation of loss of productive land. Members of the Association are landowners in the Cameron, Rogers, Sharp, Thorndale area.

John Davis, Cameron banker and treasurer of the group, also told the Chamber group of the problems the lake would create.

Following the presentation, directors discussed the resolution proposed by Beckhusen and voted for it. Beside approval of previous minutes and financial statement, it was the only business before the Chamber board.

N. L. Caperton chaired the meeting in the absence of President James Lafferty and vice-presidents Bob Ellett and Don G. Humble.

For Little League, Minors Top Berths In Balance

Play at Little League Ball Park tonight (Thursday) will pitch the Minor League leading White Sox and 2nd place Yankees at 6:30 p.m. and will match the Little League Yankees and Cardinals at 8:30 p.m. Winner of the Little League game will go into a first place tie with the Indians.

MINOR LEAGUE
The Minor League Yankees nudged the Lions out of second place with a win over the Giants Tuesday night after defeating the Lions Thursday.

Although final week standings show the White Sox ahead with 8 wins, a win is needed tonight to insure first place. The Lions in third place with 6 wins have two make-up games, one with the Giants called on a technicality last week and one with the Hustlers, called when rain halted play in May. A win tonight by the Yankees and two wins by the Lions would put the teams in a three way tie.

YANKES - LIONS

Stephen Hollas pitched his way to a win over the former Minor League pace setting Lions for a 6 to 1 victory Thursday with Roderick Ruzicka behind the plate.

Scoring for the Yankees were Ruzicka (2), Tommy Shlander, Hollas, Terry Tindall and David Wolfington.

Ricky Hertenburger scored the only run for the Lions. Lions pitcher was Jimmy Horton with Darrell Vybral catching.

HUSTLERS - GIANTS
The Hustlers and Giants met Friday with the Hustlers scoring an 18-0.

LIONS - WHITE SOX

The Lions and White Sox, who were tied for first place, met Monday night with the White Sox winning 11-2. It was the third meeting for the two teams, with RED BRICK AND SPANISH DOORS are transforming the old Burlington Baptist Church into a graceful structure in its new location just south of the city. The new home for the Primera Iglesia Bautista congregation is being remodeled by mission church builders of the Baptist General Convention of Texas. A tentative date of September 1 is planned for the church's dedication. The church was moved to Cameron in late April.

First In Texas... 7 Counties Form Authority

Representatives from seven Central Texas counties met at Marlin last week to form the Rural Regional Housing Authority of America.

The counties include Robertson, Leon, Freestone, Falls, Burleson, Limestone, and Milam.

Narvie Caperton, Cameron Postmaster, was appointed by Milam County Commissioners to serve on the board of directors of the authority. A representative from each county was named to the board.

They are: James Broadus of Caldwell, Burleson County; Tommy Tate of Marlin, Falls County; W. A. Kiele Jr. of Teague, Freestone County; J. F. Wynn of Centerville, Leon County; John Champion of Broesbeck, Limestone County; Max Barkley of Hearne, Robertson County; and Caperton, Milam County.

Barkley was elected chairman of the board, Tate vice-chairman and Wynn, secretary-treasurer.

The authority, first of its kind in Texas, will seek funds for the construction of homes for people with low incomes.

Rep. Bob Salter, meeting with the group, said the regional housing authority was formed under a 1937 state statute, the same statute that authorizes cities in Texas to form housing authorities.

Attending the organizational meeting were Charlie Blake, an assistant to Cong. W. R. Poage and Dr. Roy Dugger, president of Texas State Technical Institute.

Plans discussed during the meeting included applications to be made by the authority with several federal agencies, such as the Department of Housing and Urban Development, seeking funds from various available sources.

The only two other rural housing authorities known to be in operation in the United States are in Mississippi, where one was formed about two years ago, and a recently organized group in southern Alabama.

Welfare, Food Center Face Moves

Milam County Commissioners Monday discussed appointment of election judges, relocation of the surplus commodity food distribution center and signed a lease agreement with the Cameron Housing Authority for Welfare office space.

Commissioners also met with Santa Fe officials Monday afternoon in a final tax equalization session that gained agreement of a slight valuation increase for the Santa Fe Railroad property.

No decision was made by Commissioners on relocation of the commodity food office, now located on the block scheduled for a mall when Urban Renewal construction starts.

The welfare office, located in a house across from the Post Office that will be cleared for construction of the Ben Milam Savings and Loan office, will be moved to a unit in the 6th Street site of the public housing complex now under construction.

STOLEN CAR
Police reported that a 1968 Dodge, belonging to Billie Quiram who is manager of Safeway, was stolen from the supermarket parking lot around 5 p.m. Monday.

The car thief apparently re-wired the ignition to start the car. Police Chief John Shearin said the car was found in Brenham Monday night, abandoned after an accident which had damaged it.

Car Leads Police White Shield Brings In 2 Producers

A Cameron man has been charged in County Court with driving while intoxicated, and in City Court on eight traffic offenses after leading a City police car on a wild chase early Sunday morning.

Speeds of up to 110 miles an hour were clocked by Cameron Policeman Truman White before the man's car hit a tree on the Hanover road about 14 miles from Cameron.

Police also reported a car stolen Monday from the Safeway parking lot, an escape of a teenage prisoner Tuesday, and a mailman bitten by a dog.

Officer White first tried to overtake the car, driven by John Henry Wilson, on Emancipation St., after it speeded around several corners. He said the car crossed Travis on 12th St. at 70 miles an hour and continued speeding around the east side of town.

White said the car was traveling at 80 mph, without lights along residential streets before it left the city limits and headed toward Hanover.

Two Highway Patrolmen from Rockdale joined in the chase, moving to head the car off when the patrol car motor burned out and they were stranded on Highway 77.

They were picked up by Nathan Lewis of Cameron and returned to Cameron where they got Patrolman Milton Wright's car.

White said Wilson's car was apparently damaged when he ran into a ditch during the chase. It continued at a high speed until it went into a ditch at a curve, and rode the ditch until it hit a tree.

The car overturned, throwing Wilson out. He was taken to a Cameron hospital where the extent of his injuries was not known.

Police reported that a 1968 Dodge, belonging to Billie Quiram who is manager of Safeway, was stolen from the supermarket parking lot around 5 p.m. Monday.

The car thief apparently re-wired the ignition to start the car. Police Chief John Shearin said the car was found in Brenham Monday night, abandoned after an accident which had damaged it.

ESCAPE
The teenage escapee was being taken to Gatesville Tuesday, Shearin said, when he broke away from officers at The Texan Restaurant and ran off.

City Police, Sheriff's officers and Highway Patrolman Milton Wright joined in the search for the boy, reported to be about 15. He was found under a house on West 8th St. near the railroad tracks about an hour after his escape.

DOG BITE
Police were forced to shoot a stray dog on Polk St. Monday after Cameron postman John Schmidt reported that the dog bit him on the leg. Officers tried to catch the dog but were unable to, Shearin said.

The animal's head was taken to Austin for rabies testing and a report was expected shortly, Chief Shearin said.

Both the Milbur Field and the Cherokee Navarro Field in south Milam County gained new oil wells or had new wildcats scheduled early this week.

In the Milbur Field the White Shield Oil & Gas Corporation of Tulsa, Oklahoma, which last month had scheduled its No. 1 P. H. Perry and No. 1 W. T. Hogan on adjoining leases in David Vanveighon Survey, brought in both tests as good producers.

Completion was in the Navarro, although most production in the Milbur Field comes from the basal Wilcox, which lies about 500 - 600 feet above the Navarro in that area.

J. W. Hancock Company of San Antonio was drilling contractor on both wells.

White Shield reportedly has plans to drill its No. 2 Perry in the near future. Location will be near the old General Crude No. 1 Perry drilled by that company a dozen years ago as a deep Smackover try, but plugged back to around 3,400 feet and completed as an oiler in the Navarro.

Another new well for the field is the No. 1 Arthur Praesael which Keese & Thomas drilled a short distance across the Milam line in Burleson County.

Location of the Praesael is on a 200 acre lease in John C. Walker Survey.

Spudded May 13, it was drilled to 3,665 feet total depth and produces 56 barrels per day of 35.5 gravity oil on pump on perforations at 3,434 - 56 feet.

Still another well being completed for Milbur is the No. 1 Curtis R. Jackson drilled by Lullin Oil & Gas Company. It is located on a 142 acre lease and near a wildcat drilled on Coldiron acreage about three years ago. Pipe was reported being set on this wildcat Monday. No other information was available.

And rig was scheduled to move in early this week for the No. 1 Lillian Beard in the new Cherokee Navarro Field southeast of Milam.

This wildcat reportedly was planned by three Houston operators, R. E. Zimmerman, Robert E. Fendley and James B. Whately, but was scheduled last week-end by Fred L. Gaines of Houston.

Location of Gaines No. 1 Lillian Beard will be on a 100 acre lease in James Welch Survey in the southwest extension of the Cherokee Navarro Field.

Gaines has scheduled two wildcats on the lease. J. W. Hancock Company of San Antonio is the drilling contractor.

The No. 1 Lillian Beard is near the No. 1 Wallace and Coleman Beard which is a Farmington, New Mexico operator, David Thomas Jr., drilled in early this year as a 61.25 barrel per day producer in the Navarro formation.

Linda Is Milam FB Queen

Miss Linda Synatske, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Synatske of Buckholts, was chosen Milam County Farm Bureau's new Queen as a climax of its annual beauty contest Saturday night in the Methodist Fellowship Hall.

Named runner-up by the judges was Miss Jo Ann Jensen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Jensen of Cameron.

They were among nine girls, daughters of Farm Bureau members from all parts of Milam County, who competed for the title and put on an entertaining two hour show for a crowd estimated at more than 200 persons.

"It really was a surprise," Miss Synatske said when asked a few minutes after she had been crowned if she had expected to win the title.

Linda, brown haired and wearing a flame red formal, exchanged banter with master of ceremonies Millard Shivers, who interviewed each of the contestants on stage. She told him she liked to cook and her hobby was listening to music, especially modern jazz. She plans to attend Sam Houston State University at Huntsville this fall. She is a graduate of Rogers High School.

She succeeded Miss Carol Lucko, who held the queen's title for the past two years since the Farm Bureau did not hold a beauty contest in 1969.

Runner-up Jo Ann Jensen of Cameron, an attractive ash blonde who wore a pink formal, said she liked riding in rodeos and barrel racing when master of ceremonies Millard Shivers asked about her hobbies. A Yoe High School graduate, she also will be a student at Sam Houston State University this fall.

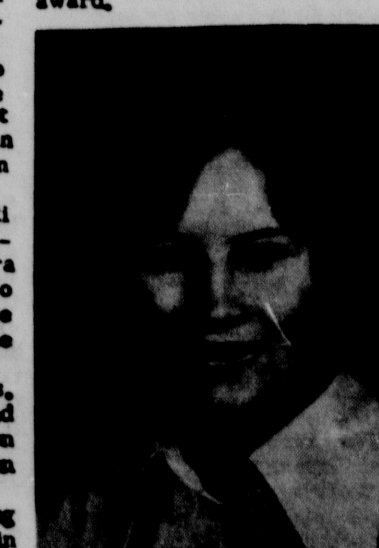

Milam County Farm Bureau president Robert Jungman opened the program with an address of welcome. Music during interludes was by Max McClaren at the piano. The invocation was by Mrs. Shep McClaren, Jr. Milam County Home Demonstration Agent Christine Laws introduced the master of ceremonies, Millard Shivers of Dallas.

He introduced Jan Stewart, who sang three solos, and Jani Sue Zajicek, who performed a ballet number before the nine queen contestants were presented on stage.

Other contestants were Vicki Kuhn of Burlington, Joyce Swanzy of Cameron, Patsy Tepera of Buckholts, Mary Lou and Jo Ann Kornegay of Gause, Annie Leskar of Buckholts, and Diane Lucko of Cameron.

Judges were Mr. and Mrs. Hollis King of Falls County and Mrs. Judy Dedek, Williamson County Home Demonstration Agent in Georgetown.

Miss Synatske, representing Milam County, will compete in the Farm Bureau's upcoming District queen contest next week.

Hospital Facilities Here . . .

Cameron's good fortune in modern hospital plants is more evident in view of the problem small hospitals like that in Rockdale endure under strict Medicare standards.

All hospital rooms and facilities in Cameron are new from 1962. St. Edward Hospital is nearing completion of a plant though a carpenter's strike is delaying October completion plans.

Leaders in Rockdale are vying for time to build a new hospital, announced about a year ago, but delayed in construction, probably because of costs of interest and construction.

We are fortunate that hospital facilities here are new or nearing completion and are enabled to meet the stricter standards which have closed numerous small town hospitals and question facilities in about 80 others.

Open Committee Meetings . . .

Good for the House open meeting insurgents!

About 50 Congressmen, amalgamating every political and ideological view, want all Congressional committee meetings public. Many are executive sessions where committee votes decide major legislation that sometimes goes routinely through the general House vote.

This is the same concern that advocates of public notice in newspapers share, the necessity of public business staying open to the public. Those the public elects the public deserves to know about, whether Congressman or councilman.

This reform move includes a hope to open meetings during the House-Senate conference meetings which work out differences between legislation on identical subjects from the two bodies.

Practically all legislative business is done in committee these days, even votes in the House where 100 congressmen can be called a "committee of the whole", without recorded votes.

Those committees which are open to the public seem to have little handicap doing open committee business.

Chief benefactor of this movement is the voter. He would know how his representatives voted in committees, which really shape the legislation going before the House.

The Senate has less inhibition about public votes in committee.

When about half of the House committee meetings and hearings are closed to the public and therefore the press, it is good time for a coalition of responsible legislators to make Congressmen responsive to public view and, finally, more responsible in the way they vote.

The open meeting proposal is part of a reorganization bill in the House, and though considered controversial by boosters of seniority and House tradition, this move for opening House committees is likely to be approved. Ironically enough, the bill will be voted on in an anonymous vote.

Press and informed public are interested in this reform passage.

No Room For Optimism In Next Year's Tax Bill

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN

Gold figures submitted in major agency budget proposals left top state officials and legislators little room for optimism about the amount of next year's tax bill.

Texas Education Agency calculated public school operations during the next biennium will cost about $2.3 billion — $2 billion in state money alone. This is an increase of about $377.1 million over the present level.

Nobody was too surprised about that, but the Texas Public Welfare Department came up with a shocker.

Welfare staffers figure that the rising assistance rolls will require a budget of nearly $2 billion overall for the 1972-73 fiscal period. That represents an increase in state welfare funds of $300.4 million over the current biennium.

So, two vital functions of state government alone — public education and welfare — are seeking some $677.5 million in additional revenues. It is expected that most of the other agencies will request more than their present appropriations instead of less.

Welfare requests, as large as they are, do not take into consideration larger grants for the needy and ill.

However, a Senate committee has recommended the $80 million a year ceiling for state spending on categorical assistance be abolished and aid payments be matched to actual need. If enacted by the Legislature, this would mean millions more in welfare spending.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes expressed grave doubts that legislators would accept tremendous increases in welfare spending without "substantial reform" of the entire welfare system.

Welfare officials note that assistance rolls continue to expand uncontrollably (due largely to federal court rulings and rising population).

COURTS SPEAK

Supreme Court upheld tough rules defining guests and required food service at private drinking clubs. In another decision involving the Alcoholic Beverage Commission, the Court refused to outlaw the purchase of liquor by "agents" for the private lockers of members of dry area clubs.

A GRASSROOTS COMMENT

It may surprise the average taxpayer to learn to what extent the Federal Government has entered the family planning service program. We have no opinion regarding the wisdom of using the Pill. But, it's possible the Federal Government's family planning program could reduce the population explosion, both here and abroad, to a dull thud. —J.C.

In a Texarkana - area case, the Court held that victims of uninsured drivers must prove there was no insurance coverage on the other motorist before he can collect on his own uninsured motorist policy.

A Houston nurse, who claimed purchases were charged against her on a bogus credit card, lost her appeal to the top court in her effort to collect damages from a discount house and bill collection service which persistently tried to make her pay.

EAGLE RULING NEAR
Railroad Commission soon will rule as to whether the famed Texas Eagle passenger train can be discontinued by the Missouri-Pacific Railroad.

Eagle is one of three passenger haulers now operating across the state.

M-P claims that the train is losing money and wants to cut it off. Railroad attorneys argued that the Commission has no right to force it to continue to lose money.

Contending that the train should be kept in service, the National Association of Railroad Passengers said if M-P tried harder it could sell more passenger service and make a profit.

Train runs from St. Louis to Laredo, through Texarkana, Palestine, Austin and San Antonio.

DRIVING SCHOOL

Drivers who collect too many moving traffic violations may be going to night school to learn better behavior.

Thirty new sets of driver - training equipment will be provided to 20 regional education service centers over the state to teach students by day and adult traffic violators by night. This is in line with a new plan approved by the State Board of Education. National Highway Safety Bureau will pay $698,100 for simulator equipment and supplementary educational programs.

INTEGRATION AID ASKED

U.S. Justice Department has called for state aid in meeting federal integration guidelines by 48 Texas school districts.

Among the larger districts named as not in compliance were Amarillo, Austin, Odessa, Lubbock, Midland, Port Arthur, Beaumont (South Park), Temple, Richardson and Wichita Falls. State education agencies, federal authorities noted, have control over local districts in such vital matters as state aid, accreditation and textbook distribution.

INSURANCE HEARING

A delayed hearing date on auto insurance rate-making in effect assures Texas car owners that any premium hikes won't be effective until around December. Raises were expected by September.

HUMBLE TO SPEAK AT LIGHTS CHAPEL

Don G. Humble, Cameron attorney, will speak on contracts and other legal matters at the adult information meeting set for Thursday, 7:30 p.m., at the Lights Chapel Baptist Church in Duchtown.

The series of informational meetings is sponsored by the Couples Class of First Methodist Church.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

Government officials are always hunting for new sources of tax revenue, in fact one state is offering a reward to anybody who comes up with a new idea for more money but I doubt if it'll be paid as the only source of taxes so far in the history of the human race has been people and I don't see any prospects for any change in the system. Therefore the problem narrows down to a matter of timing - when does Congress for example figure the people can stand a little more taxing without changing Congressmen, and the best method of gauging this was proclaimed by a Congressman in an article I read in a newspaper last night.

According to him, this is no time to increase taxes because "the people are in no mood for it."

There's the key to the whole thing. No taxes anywhere should be raised till the people are in the mood for it, but don't go any further, I mean, don't suggest the old taxes shouldn't be paid either till the people are in the mood for it.

Now if Congress at any time is in doubt about the mood of the people for more taxes, I'll be glad to take the contract at a fair price to conduct a nationwide opinion poll, with more accuracy than any other poll, including the British ones.

I'll guarantee that without even leaving the front porch of my house on this Johnson grass farm I can tell you exactly what the mood of 95 per cent of the people is, in this country or any other on earth, on the question of raising taxes.

Furthermore, while I'm conducting the survey, for an additional fee I can determine how 95 per cent of the people feel about increasing governmental services.

I can even narrow it down to any particular city you name. For example, my survey will show that New York city wants less Federal spending on non-essentials and more Federal spending on New York, Cincinnati? Ditto, Chicago? Ditto, You name the town or city and I'll supply the ditto.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Corpus Delicti

Suppose that a man walks into the police station one day and announces that he has committed a murder. He says he hid the body in the woods, but can't remember where. If no corroborating evidence can be found, may the man nevertheless be sent to jail for homicide?

No, because the case against him lacks a "corpus delicti." And without that, generally speaking, there can be no conviction for a crime. A confession might be either erroneous or involuntary, or might even be induced by some psychological motive other than a desire to tell the truth.

The phrase "corpus delicti" is often mistakenly thought to mean a dead body, perhaps because "corpus" sounds like "corpse." Actually, it just means "the body of the crime"—the physical evidence that a crime has been committed.

It may indeed be a body, but it may also be a burned-down house, or an altered check, or a black eye. Before punishing someone, the law wants to be reasonably sure that a crime really did occur.

It is true that in homicide cases, the most common corpus delicti is the victim's body. However, a murder conviction is possible even if no body is ever found. Take this case:

On the second night of an ocean voyage, a member of the crew vanished from the ship. Another seaman, charged later with murder, defended himself on the ground that the missing man's body was never found—hence, there was no corpus delicti.

However, the prosecutor countered with the following points:

- 1) that the defendant had been alone on the deck with the missing man just before he disappeared;
- 2) that the deck bore fresh bloodstains;
- 3) that a bloodstained knife had been found in the defendant's possession; and
- 4) that the missing man should be presumed dead, because there had been no other vessel nearby that could possibly have picked him up.

The court thereupon ruled that, even with no body, there was still a corpus delicti—that is, a body of evidence indicating that the dastardly deed had been done. Result: the defendant was found guilty of murder.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

'THE PILL' AND THE TAXPAYER

Rep. George Bush (Texas) . . . It has come to my attention that the Office of Economic Opportunity has successfully negotiated a contract with one of the major pharmaceutical manufacturers of oral contraceptives which could result in savings of millions of dollars for the taxpayer. The OEO through its family planning program is one of the major purchasers of oral contraceptives.

"In 1968 and 1969 the average cost to the various OEO projects ranged from 60 to 65 cents per cycle. (A cycle is one month's supply to a recipient.) Prior to 1968 the average cost per cycle was 87 cents. However, by presenting its case to the manufacturers and through competitive bidding OEO has successfully negotiated a contract with the Syntex Laboratories of Palo Alto, Calif., which enables OEO projects to purchase oral contraceptives directly from Syntex for the average price of only 18 to 21 cents per cycle. This is a cost reduction of over 40 cents per cycle. . .

"Initial purchases under the agreement with Syntex made during the period of April 1 to June 5 totaled 250,000 cycles. THIS REPRESENTS A SAVINGS OF SLIGHTLY OVER $100,000 IN JUST 2 MONTHS. Further, the amount saved will provide family planning services for 1 year to an additional 2,000 women. Looking into the future, THE PROJECTED SAVINGS OVER A 5-YEAR PERIOD IS BETWEEN $15 AND $25 MILLION. . .

"The Agency for International Development (AID) has a similar agreement with the G.D. Searle Co. (who) sells its oral contraceptives, Ovulen and Enovid, to AID for use abroad at a cost of 17.25 and 17.75 per cycle. . .

"The Department of Defense (DOD) also purchases a wide range of contraceptives from a number of manufacturers. In no instance does the price which DOD pays approximate the low price negotiated by OEO and AID. . .

"DOD also purchases oral contraceptives from the following pharmaceutical firms: PARKE-DAVIS at costs of 35 cents, 49 cents, and 52 cents per cycle; MEADE-JOHNSON at 68 cents per cycle; UP-JOHN at 59 cents per cycle; and WYETH LABORATORIES at 64 cents per cycle.

"Another large purchaser of oral contraceptives for use in its family planning program is, of course the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare (HEW). . .

"HEW is aware of the contracts which OEO and AID have negotiated. But, apparently because of organizational differences between free standing agencies and departments, and other factors, HEW and DOD have not succeeded thus far in obtaining the same kind of favorable prices. . .

"I have introduced a bill which would coordinate all domestic population and family planning programs within one agency, the National Center for Population and Family Planning under the

Dry Heat Processing Of Grain Sorghum Studied

By Fred Schuetze

COLLEGE STATION — A search for a physical process to improve the utilization of grain sorghum by cattle has been going on for a long time. A possible solution is recognized in dry heat processing of the sorghum by J. K. Riggs, J. W. Sorenson, Jr., and Price Hobgood, all of Texas A&M University.

A project, planned and enacted in 1967, provided an opportunity to study the equipment requirements, the effect of initial moisture content on popping characteristics of sorghum grain and the bulk densities of the various components of the popped grain mixtures.

The study also evaluated feedlot performance and carcass characteristics of cattle fed the dry heat-processed and nonprocessed grain in all-concentrate finishing mixtures.

Rumen volatile fatty acid levels and grain digestibility were also determined in the work done cooperatively by the Departments of Agricultural Engineering and Animal Science at A&M.

An infrared - heated reciprocating steel table machine and a gas-heated vibrating - tray conveyor machine were used in the research to determine the feasibility of using dry heat in a popping operation to process the sorghum grain for finishing beef cattle.

Results of the study showed that the grain should be cleaned to assure an even flow free from foreign materials for efficient operation of the reciprocating - table machine.

A grain moisture content of 15 percent was optimum for obtaining the highest percentage of completely popped grain which was 45 percent. The weight or bulk densities of the loose-fill samples ranged from 49 pounds per cubic foot for the original whole grain to about 6 pounds per cubic foot for the completely popped grain.

When compared with nonheated, dry-rolled grain, the self-feeding of the popped grain mixture, either completely popped or partially and nonpopped grain, all crimped and in all-concentrate feed mixtures to finishing steers resulted in a significantly reduced feed intake. The reduced feed intake was accompanied by an increase in efficiency of feed utilization but a nonsignificant decrease in rate of gain, final weight, carcass weight, dressing percent, carcass grade and fat thickness.

Rumen samples showed significantly lower levels of acetic and is-valeric acids but higher levels of propionic acid in cattle fed the dry heat-treated grains than in those fed the nonheated grains.

The resulting narrower acetic propionic acid ration coincided with the greater efficiency of feed utilization observed by the researchers in the cattle.

The cattle fed the dry heat-treated grains showed higher digestibility of dry matter, organic matter, nonprotein organic matter and nitrogen-free extract, but not of fat, fiber or protein.

No differences in digestibility were found among cattle fed the three heat-treated grain fractions. The researchers concluded that this indicated that dry heat rather than popping itself was responsible for the changes in performance.

"Dry Heat Processing of Sorghum Grain for Beef Cattle" is the title of a recent Texas Agricultural Experiment Station publication which explains the research. It is B-1096 and copies are available from the Department of Agricultural Information, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843.

Plant Disease Workshop Set

By J. D. Moore

Thursday, July 16, will be devoted to plant disease problems in Milam County. Dr. Jerral Johnson, plant pathologist at A&M will be in the County Extension Office the afternoon of July 16.

Those with lawn, garden, tree, field crops or any plant disease problems are encouraged to bring a plant specimen to our office for an opinion.

In selecting a specimen such as lawn grass or garden plants, take up the entire plant including as much of the root system as possible for a more complete analysis.

WHAT IS A PLANT DISEASE?

A plant disease is a condition in which any part of a living plant is abnormal or which interferes with the normal activity of the plant's cells or organs. As a result an abnormal condition in the plant is produced which is called a disease symptom. For example, leaf spots, stunting and blights are symptoms of disease.

Plant diseases are caused by fungi, bacteria, viruses and nematodes. All of these forms of life are not detrimental.

Many are beneficial, in that they break down organic matter and perform other functions helpful to man. Recognition of plant disease organisms helps one distinguish between the beneficial and the harmful ones.

Micro - organisms are everywhere. Thousands of bacteria are present in the human mouth. Fungi appear as molds on old bread. Viruses may be transferred from plant to plant by insects or other means. Nematodes are found in all natural soils.

They are desirable as long as they do not limit man's food supply or hinder his well being. A good understanding of the nature of these organisms is necessary to learn about their control.

The purpose of having the plant disease workshop is to help better understand plant diseases.

NEWS for OUTDOORSMEN

By VERN SANFORD

Although Texas has about the finest outdoors playground to be found anywhere, there are times when a fellow wants to see what's on the other side of the mountain. Anyway, that's the way we felt last summer when L. A. Wilke, another outdoors writer, and I teamed up for a flying trip to the Jackson Hole country.

It indeed was a flying trip. We boarded a Frontier jet Monday noon in Dallas and by 6 p.m. deplaned at Jackson, Wyo. after having spent a couple hours visiting a fishing tackle plant in Denver. It would have required three days driving to get where we flew in only a matter of a few hours.

At Jackson, we were met by two great guides, Jim Marcel and Deke Hedrick of High Country Outfitters and made ready for a float trip on that famous Green River. We put in near Pinedale. Entire journey ordinarily requires three days, but we took only one day of a trip which customarily covers 120 miles. Water was beautiful and loaded with fish, especially fighting rainbows and hefty German trout.

We went down the fast moving river in inflatable rafts operated by these two excellent boatmen. Mind you, this is not a white-water trip. We found no rapids, but the velocity of the stream was such that we were constantly moving unless we beached at a turn to take pictures or just admire the scenery.

After a day of that, we boarded Frontier again and flew into Billings, Mont. This flight took a little more than an hour. Here we got one of those second-best rental cars and drove down to Lovell, Wyo., a distance of about 90 miles.

Next day, accompanied by a group of Lovell businessmen and park and game officials, we went to Bighorn Reservoir. This is a new impoundment on the Bighorn River, created by the Yellowstone Dam, located downstream in Montana. This river, flowing north, is one of the most unusual streams in America. We went for 46 miles between high canyon walls. Sometimes as we looked up we estimated the height as 2,000 feet.

Scenery was fantastic.

High walls of weathered sandstone, towering upward on both sides, were estimated to be millions of years old.

This is still Indian country and much of the land on both sides of the river is reservation, with no trespassing permitted. However, there were no places to get off. When you get on this reservoir and pass the half-way mark, you must continue.

For that 46 miles there was no gas pump. Our boat was equipped with three six-gallon tanks and we used most of the gas on the way down. We fished very little that first day, just sightseeing.

Although there is a recreational tract of nearly 70,000 acres set aside in the area, it is not developed as yet and everything is still very primitive. This summer there will be some additional facilities, however, perhaps including rental boats. Also the Indians are installing a marina near the dam and it should be ready before summer ends.

Next day we went fishing. Bighorn Reservoir has been stocked with several species of trout, walleye and perch. Although our fishing wasn't spectacular, our party did come up with a good string by any standards, including a four-pound walleye.

Information on this impoundment is available from the Chamber of Commerce at either Lovell, Wyo., or Hardin, Mont.

After driving back to Billings we took the Frontier jet to Bozeman, Mont., got a rental car and motored overland 30 miles to Livingston and Yellowstone River. There we were guests of Paul McAdams, who spends his winters in Texas and his summers on the banks of the Yellowstone River. He raises trout for catchout ponds on western guest ranches and we got a sample of some of the finest rainbow fishing any person could ever want.

Although this is perhaps the favorite fly-fishing spot in the United States, we used spinning and spin casting tackle with best results. Small spinner lures were most tempting to the rainbows and brown trout.

After a day at McAdams'

Keep Swine Cool For Summer Production

Did you know that you can increase litter size by 2 to 3 pigs by keeping sows and gilts cool during extreme temperature this summer?

Research has shown that you should keep females and boars cool (less than 90) by providing shade and fogging nozzles during hot summer. Very critical time is 1 week before to 3 weeks after breeding.

Producers should consider some type of portable shade with height of 6 to 8 feet and using hog wire or chicken wire mesh with layer of straw 4-6 inches thick on top. Allow 15 to 20 square feet per animal.

Another item that should be given consideration in swine production management of replacement gilts to goback in herd is protein level of feed.

Gregory Wilson.

Red Ribbons - Danny C. Perry, Bill Jones, and Gary Gadison. Recreation: Martha Garza, Sheep: Julian McDaniel, Swine: Ricky Richter, Leroy Stephens, Gerry Hollas, and Andre Malone. Red Ribbons: Gary Cobb, Gene Garza, Michael Janke, David Lemons, and James Lemons.

Many producers wait to cut down on amount of supplement when gilts are beginning to get too heavy. The correct procedure is to keep supplement level the same and cut down on amount of grain.

Carbohydrates in grain are cause of excess fat so you can limit, but you need protein to develop good body growth, reproductive organs and maintain high disease resistance during this development stage.

Another tip that you can use to increase litter size by 1 to 3 pigs per litter is to breed sows and gilts on second or third heat period. Also, should seriously consider breeding twice at 24 hour intervals and use hard mating instead of lot breeding whenever practical.

Sow and replacement gilts could be put on temporary pastures of sudan hybrids or alfalfa using electric fence and save an average of $10 per animal on feed bill during summer and fall. Pastures should have a high concentration of animals on small areas and be moved more frequently to keep forage at good lush stage at all times.

Electric fences make this a reality now days.

DODD ATTENDS FB NEWS WORKSHOP

Earnest Dodd of Cameron, information chairman for the Milam County Farm Bureau, attended a public relations workshop July 8 in Temple, according to Robert Jungmann of Buckholts, president.

The half-day session was one of 18 such training meetings scheduled across the state by the Texas Farm Bureau in July and August.

Purpose of the meeting is to provide training in news writing techniques and preparation of county Farm Bureau newsletters, Jungmann said.

Other subjects to be covered include: how to serve the different types of news media; how to enter the Farm Bureau public relations award contest; and how to recognize what's news in Farm Bureau.

Farm Limit A Surprise Says Poage

The U. S. Senate's action last Wednesday in adopting a $20,000 limit on all agricultural payments was a surprise to almost everyone, according to Cong. W. R. Poage.

In his July 10 newsletter, Poage said "This is going to make it much more difficult for us to pass a farm bill of any kind."

Poage added that he hoped "some of those who have . . . been blocking the passage of this bill will recognize that they have nothing to gain by further delay."

House action last week included authorizing competitive newspapers to use a common plant for printing papers, Poage said he voted for the bill.

Another bill adopted by the House was one increasing the Federal contribution for health benefits of Federal employees (including Congressmen) from 24 to 50 percent of the costs.

The Bureau of the Budget recommended an increase to 38 percent, Poage said. "I voted for the motion to substitute this figure, but I could not support the proposal to more than double the Federal contribution," he said.

Farm Boy's Future

Most rural young people have to look off the farm for career possibilities. The average U.S. farm boy has only one chance in twelve of getting his own adequately-sized farm. Still, there is a great demand for graduates of the nation's agricultural colleges in agri-business with companies that supply the farmer with feed, seed, fertilizers, veterinary supplies, pesticides, equipment and vehicles. Young people with agricultural education and backgrounds are also being sought by industries which utilize farm products such as packers and processors, food distributors and retailers.

ASCS

By Alva E. Sanders

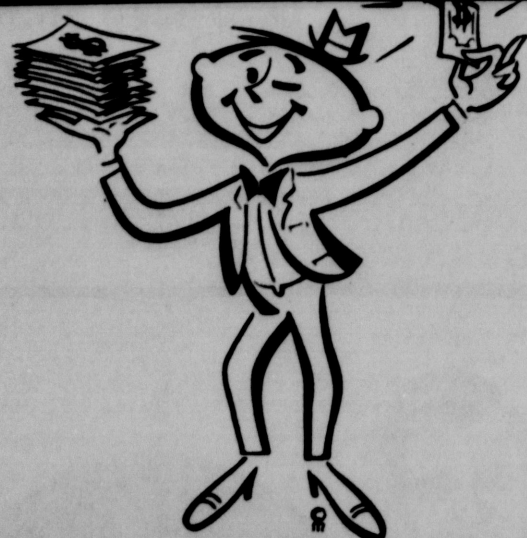

Approximately 80 percent of the farmers of Milam County have received payments for participation in the 1970 wheat, feed grain or cotton programs.

Payments will continue to be made as fast as records can be processed through computers at the data processing center in New Orleans and checks returned to the county ASCS office for distribution.

The bulk of payments should be made by mid-August if farmers who signed up completed the necessary certification indicating that they complied with all of the program provisions. This is earlier than payments have been made in previous years.

Payments to farmers have an impact on the entire community because most of the money remains in the local area where farmers pay for the things they need to buy. Participation by producers in farm programs helps even out the year - by - year flow of farm products to market, which also helps stabilize food and fiber prices, a benefit to consumers.

Farmers earn payments by diverting part of their cropland to conservation uses. This helps keep a balance between supply and demand for food and fiber, preserves the excess acres for future use when they are needed, and provides an orderly supply of farm products to consumers.

Broiler-Fryers Perk July Meals

By Christine Laws

Improving the flavor of chicken is almost an impossibility. About all you can do is make it taste differently from the last time.

You will particularly enjoy experimenting with broiler-fryers during July. Besides being abundant, broiler-fryers are convenient to fix, too. They are readily available whole or cut into halves, quarters, or pieces.

There are fresh-chilled chickens plus easy to store, quick-frozen birds. Even families of two can enjoy eating perfect broiler-fryers, as they come in weights from 1 1/4 to 3 1/2 pounds.

When shopping for chicken, follow these pointers:

1. Look for the USDA shield for quality and the official round inspection mark for wholesomeness.

2. Allow 1/2 to 1 pound ready-to-cook poultry per serving, depending upon kind of poultry and method of preparation.

3. In selecting frozen poultry, be sure wrappers are not torn or broken and the poultry is still solidly frozen.

4. Select the poultry class to suit the desired cooking method.

With the barbecue season now in full swing, it's a perfect time to have barbecued chicken. For barbecuing, select broiler halves or disjointed chicken parts. If you have a revolving spit, though, several whole birds can be threaded on the skewer.

Thighs, drumsticks, whole legs, wings and breasts are the most popular portions of the disjointed chickens for barbecuing.

Many homemakers reserve the backs and necks for inside cooking and transform these parts into tasty chicken casseroles and soups.

Giblets also can be barbecued. Simmer gizzard about 10 minutes in slightly salted water, cut into halves or quarters and thread along with the heart and liver on small metal skewers. Place the giblets over heat about 10 to 15 minutes before serving time. Barbecued giblets make excellent hors d'oeuvres.

BARBECUE SAUCE:

An especially flavorful barbecue sauce can be prepared ahead of time. Pour contents of a large bottle of seasoned barbecue sauce into a sauce pan, add a stick of butter or margarine and a quartered clove of garlic. Simmer ingredients about 30 minutes, until as thick as you desire. Brown chicken on all sides before brushing on the barbecue sauce.

One problem facing the homemaker after serving chicken is what to do with the leftovers. Here are some ideas for using up leftover chicken in tasty ways.

Sauce chicken sandwiches make fabulous eating. Place two slices of buttered toast on a warm plate. Cover each with layers of thinly sliced cooked chicken, tomato and American Cheese slices. Top with hot mushroom soup sauce. Garnish with parsley.

Chicken pancakes are extra yummy for a brunch. Cook thin pancakes, six inches in diameter. Immediately spread with chicken filling, roll up jelly-roll style and serve piping hot.

To prepare enough chicken filling for 16 pancakes, combine a can of undiluted cream of mushroom soup and 1/2 cup diced cooked chicken, highlight with sauteed green onion and chopped pimiento. Heat, then slowly stir into a slightly beaten egg yolk for added flavor and thickening. Return to heat for two or three more minutes to cook egg. Allow two or three filled pancakes per serving, and top each with a cream sauce and chopped nuts.

DOWNTOWN CAMERON

OLD JEFFERSON -- The courtyard at the old Excelsior House was the scene of many parties when Jefferson was one of Texas' largest cities more than 100 years ago.

Excelsior House Echoes Jefferson's Brash Era

JEFFERSON

On autumn nights, cool winds whip rustling leaves from giant oaks and shower them on the porch of the Excelsior House where almost 100 years ago Presidents Grant and Hayes were among the hotel's patrons.

The sound of leaves falling, almost imperceptibly like rain, seems to echo in the imagination, conjuring up nights long ago when Jefferson was a brash and booming riverport.

On many of those nights music and laughter filled the grand ballroom of the Excelsior House as men in waistcoats and their ladies in hooped skirts danced for hours.

A young and beautiful girl among them was called "Diamond Bessie" Moore because of the splendor of the jewels she wore.

But the jewels were gone that winter afternoon when townsmen found her shot dead and left lying in the snow and decaying leaves of the nearby forest.

There followed the murder trial of her love, Abe Rothschild. The trial dragged on for seven years until finally a jury proclaimed Rothschild "not guilty" and he fled Jefferson a breath ahead of angry citizens.

It is told that Rothschild was never known to be seen again in Jefferson. But years later a stranger appeared in town and went to the grave of Diamond Bessie. He found the grave well attended.

Surprised, the stranger turned to an aged caretaker and asked, "This girl had a bad reputation. Why does the town take such care of her grave?"

The caretaker approached the stranger, according to the legend, and replied, "Because she was some mother's daughter."

Each spring, the Jessie Allen Wise Garden Club recreates the Rothschild murder trial as part of its annual historical pilgrimage.

It evolved from the "Queen Mab" balls, Jefferson's form of Mardi Gras, held in the 1870's when the town had a population of 35,000 and was the second largest city in the state.

During the pilgrimages of today, visitors tour Jefferson's past, including eight white-collared mansions of the Civil War era. Townspeople in ante-bellum costumes stroll the grounds of these homes.

The flow of visitors swells on the days of the pilgrimage, but Jefferson offers a continuing attraction and a fascination for travelers who bring their imaginations with them.

Breakfast, southern style, at the Excelsior House is in itself enough reason to visit the old town.

Diners are seated at glass-topped tables in a cozy breakfast room with a view of a fountain and a courtyard where Grant once stood on the scarred bricks.

It is the only meal served at the hotel. But the ham, eggs, grits and hot breads are a delight.

For dinner there is Roy Butler's Riverfront Restaurant, housed in a 100-year-old brick warehouse.

The barbecue is brought to a delicious turn in a huge earthen oven like those that soldier-of-fortune Butler found in China in the years before he and his wife moved to Jefferson.

Visitors tour railroad financier Jay Gould's private railcar, "Atlantia," named for the Greek goddess of speed.

The women of the garden club discovered the car lost on an obscure siding at nearby Pitner's Junction. They restored it, just as they did the 110-year-old Excelsior House, and placed it across the brick street opposite the hotel.

Gould, of course, is a part of Jefferson's past.

In the days when stern-wheelers churned up Big Cypress Bayou to make Jefferson a leading inland port, Gould came to town and proposed bringing his railroad to the area. Councilmen scoffed at the thought of steam engines competing with the riverboats.

They rejected Gould's proposal, infuriating the millionaire. He left Jefferson, cursing the town and damning it to oblivion.

Gould took the railroad to other cities, and soon afterward Jefferson became landlocked when Big Cypress Bayou all but disappeared and the riverboats were useless.

The town's population subsequently shrunk to its present 3,000. But much of the past remains today for visitors to experience.

The Jefferson Historical Museum, the old red brick federal building, has been called a "stately monument to the grandeur and opulence of Jefferson's golden era."

Displays include more than 5,000 items from Sharp and Spencer carbines of the Civil War to a rough copy of the Declaration of Independence as it was drafted by Thomas Jefferson, for whom the town was named.

The museum is in the same block as the Excelsior House, the hub of much that was Jefferson.

One treat is a fringe-top surrey ride conducted, perhaps, by

Fred Fegan.

Tall and graying at more than 75, Fegan knew the town when it was a flourishing city. Fegan, the son of a slave, remembers Jefferson in its glory and tells visitors of the Old Schuler House:

"There's the widow's walk on top. When the boats were running the ladies used to stand there looking for their husbands, hoping they'd come back. Some didn't."

Located on U.S. Highway 59, 154 miles east of Dallas, Jefferson is an island from the past amid the East Texas forests. It is framed by Lake of the Pines and mysterious Caddo Lake, said to have been born at midnight in the eruption of an earthquake.

Jefferson's past was a long time ago, but much of the flavor remains, brought back in the song of the wind and leaves falling.

They brought her home Wednesday and went on to San Antonio for a day or two then came back to Gause and spent some more time with Mrs. Harris.

Mrs. and Mrs. Charles Herst and children of Tyler visited with Mrs. Harris one day last week. They were here visiting with his mother, Mrs. Martha Herbst.

Sunday afternoon Mr. F. B. Mathis, having flown down from Alabama on business, surprised Mrs. Harris with a short visit.

SUMMER TURKEY PROMOTION PLANNED BY TDA

AUSTIN

Texas Department of Agriculture Commissioner John C. White has announced plans for the second annual turkey promotion for July and August.

"Anytime is Turkey time" is the slogan for the program which is directed by the marketing division of the TDA as a part of its Texas Agriculture products program, now in its second successful year.

Informing Texans of turkey's value as a dish for all seasons is the goal of the promotion. During last year's operation, turkey producers and processors set an all-time high in sales, and they are anxious to cooperate again with Commissioner White's forces.

WORSHIP IN CHURCH

A big old-fashioned water wheel! Round and round it turns and oh, how slowly! Sure, water below the wheel has gone but water above the wheel still possesses potential power that may influence the lives of millions. It is that way with human life, too. The gigantic wheel keeps turning while life keeps passing. "The wheels of the gods grind slowly but they grind exceedingly well." One generation comes while another goes... 3,600 souls go over the wheel every hour... 86,000 every day. Stop right where you are! Think of your opportunity! Act immediately! You have only a little moment to make your contribution to the sum total of human goodness. Just what are you going to do about it, sir? Perhaps you should join the increasing millions who are finding solution to their problems through regular church attendance. You may also find a better way to expend your potential for good.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Dr. Bertram S. Brown, Director
National Institute of Mental Health

What Is Mental Health?

There are many definitions of mental health. But perhaps the most appropriate one is a combination of several concepts.

These concepts stress the positive state of mental and emotional well-being.

Thus, among the basic indicators of what mental health is are the following:

First, a person's understanding and acceptance of himself;

Second, his perception of the world around him and his relationships with other people; and

Third, his ability to handle crisis and stress.

Present-day psychiatry proposes that mental health, then, is the ability to live one's fullest potential as a creative and productive human being.

To be competent in the technological world of today and tomorrow, an individual must have the social skills to be able to do three things: to love and be loved, to work, and to play.

Through the realization of these, it should be possible to achieve that measure of satisfaction from life that is both a contribution to the lives of others and to one's own fulfillment.

It is, therefore, no longer enough just to search for the causes after an illness has developed. Prevention is the watchword.

Community mental health centers, beginning in 1963.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our appreciation for the many kindnesses extended our family during the illness and death of our mother, Mrs. Hattie P. Gregory. Especially do we want to thank Rev. Coleman, Dr. Hollister and the nurses at Newton Memorial for their special efforts and acts of kindness.

CARD OF THANKS

We want to express our thanks and appreciation to all of our friends who were so thoughtful and kind to us during our recent sorrow. We also wish to thank them for the food, flowers and cards and words of sympathy.

health centers that are now found in every part of the United States.

Everybody can have these services; they are not restricted to the wealthy, or to the poor, or to any special group. They are community services, organized in such a way that they can become available to the entire population of any community—rural, urban, industrial, or suburban.

As adequate and accessible services for prevention and treatment of mental illness become available and are delivered to people everywhere in the nation, the true meaning of mental health should become clearer—and more attainable—for each of us.

City Supports CIF...

City of Cameron cited the industrial development with a pledge of $3,000 for Cameron Industrial Foundation.

CIF is effective in locating and bringing industry into Cameron and the City's pledge comes at a time when further efforts well may see additional growth through industry.

With concentration on resolving housing need and industry location, the City Council lends leadership and support to the non-profit Foundation whose leadership is proving a town of some 6,000 can create industrial and employment opportunity.

City Councilmen join Milam Commissioners Court in giving enlightened leadership and support when decision at a critical time maintains the momentum so long in development, but which continues at a judicious, measured pace.

Commissioners approved unanimously the other day Milam County's joining a regional housing authority, second in the United States, for substantial, low-cost housing.

Industry and housing are inseparable in continuing the Cameron development cycle, becoming so obvious these days.

It is a sign of progress when elected officials at both city and county level initiate progressive moves based on need and proven performance, such as the success of Cameron Industrial Foundation, Inc., which, after all, is a part of the city and county future.

WHAT OTHERS SAY....

Men's Lib...

Men's Liberation is the next social movement to watch. It's not a male backlash against Women's Lib.

In fact, it parallels rather than opposes it. Whereas many women want to overcome stereotypes which lead to low pay, unequal ownership rights, fewer rungs on their occupational ladder, the men are wrestling with male stereotypes.

Indeed, the arrival of women on the job scene, for example, may not so much suggest competition for the men, as rub in the awareness that husbands alone no longer can meet all a family's money needs. The wife has to help him out, frustrating the traditional role of the male as the good provider.

Or, growing social pressures to limit family size, dissipate traditional male pride in paternity.

Or, the increasing urbanness of life is removing the outdoors or farmlands as settings for manly achievement.

It isn't likely Men's Lib will move out of its present discussion group stage into the militant activism of Women's Lib. But it shows that adjustment to a technological age is prompting a fresh look at prospects for men as well as for women.

The Diplomatic Pouch

WASHINGTON, D.C.--The following letters were recently answered by the Department of State:

U.S. Policy Toward Israel

Everyone speaks of an erosion in the relationship between the United States and Israel. I would respectfully suggest that it is imperative for the Department of State to issue now an unequivocal statement of intent in support of Israel. By so doing, it will remove all inferences of a deteriorating relationship with that country.

H.J.G.
New Orleans, La.

Dear H.J.G.:

President Nixon sent a statement of support to the Jewish leadership conference in Washington on January 25 which should lay to rest any doubts about the constancy of U.S. friendship for and commitment to Israel. As the President said: "The United States stands by its friends. Israel is one of its friends."

We remain convinced that our policy is fair and balanced, that it is in the best interests of the United States, and that it does not impair the negotiating position or security of Israel. As Secretary Rogers has pointed out, one of the major concerns in all our diplomatic endeavors is the security and independent strength of that country.

We are well aware of the concern that U.S. policy toward Israel has aroused. The concern that that policy has changed seems to stem more from surface appearances, tactics, and even semantics than from substance. The fundamentals of our close and friendly relations with Israel remain the same as they have been over the years since the creation of that state. The decision to pursue different tactics, for example by entering into talks with other powers or by declaring publicly what our policy has been for some time, should not be construed as any change in our fundamental objectives.

Love and Marriage

If an American fell in love with a Russian girl, could he marry her? How would he go about it? Also, how would he get her out of the country?

B.D.
Nashville, Tenn.

Dear B.D.:

A few Americans in recent years have succeeded in marrying Soviet girls. In each case, however, there were long, frustrating delays. The chief problem is to win the Soviet authorities' permission to marry a Soviet citizen and then, after the marriage, to obtain an exit permit that would enable her to leave the USSR and join her husband in this country.

An American desiring to marry a Soviet girl would first apply to the Soviet Embassy in Washington for a regular, not a tourist, visa to travel to the Soviet Union. In applying, he should clearly indicate marriage as the purpose of his trip. On the basis of past experience, the Soviet authorities will be very slow in processing his application.

Should the decision be favorable, an American spouse would still be able to stay in the USSR only a few weeks. Following his marriage, he would probably have to leave his wife behind while she applied for her exit permit. This would probably take several months or longer, and it is possible that the USSR Government would refuse to issue her permit indefinitely.

Assuming that the Soviet wife obtained her permit, the last step would be for her to apply to the American Embassy in Moscow for an American visa, which she would need in order to come to the United States. This usually can be completed rather quickly. The main hurdle, however, is to win Soviet permission.

PAUL CHANDLER

Winning State Meet in the Mile Run

at Austin, 1968

Paul Chandler started his track career at Yoe High School. In 1968 he won the District Meet at Blinn Junior College. He entered the Regional Meet, also at Blinn, and won.

Paul went on to the State Finals in Austin, running against 8 entries and won with a time of 4:23.2. In his senior year at Yoe High School Paul was offered a track scholarship by Abilene Christian College. Paul lettered on the varsity as a freshman and made All-Conference track in his freshman and sophomore years. His best time in the mile run to date is 4:09.2.

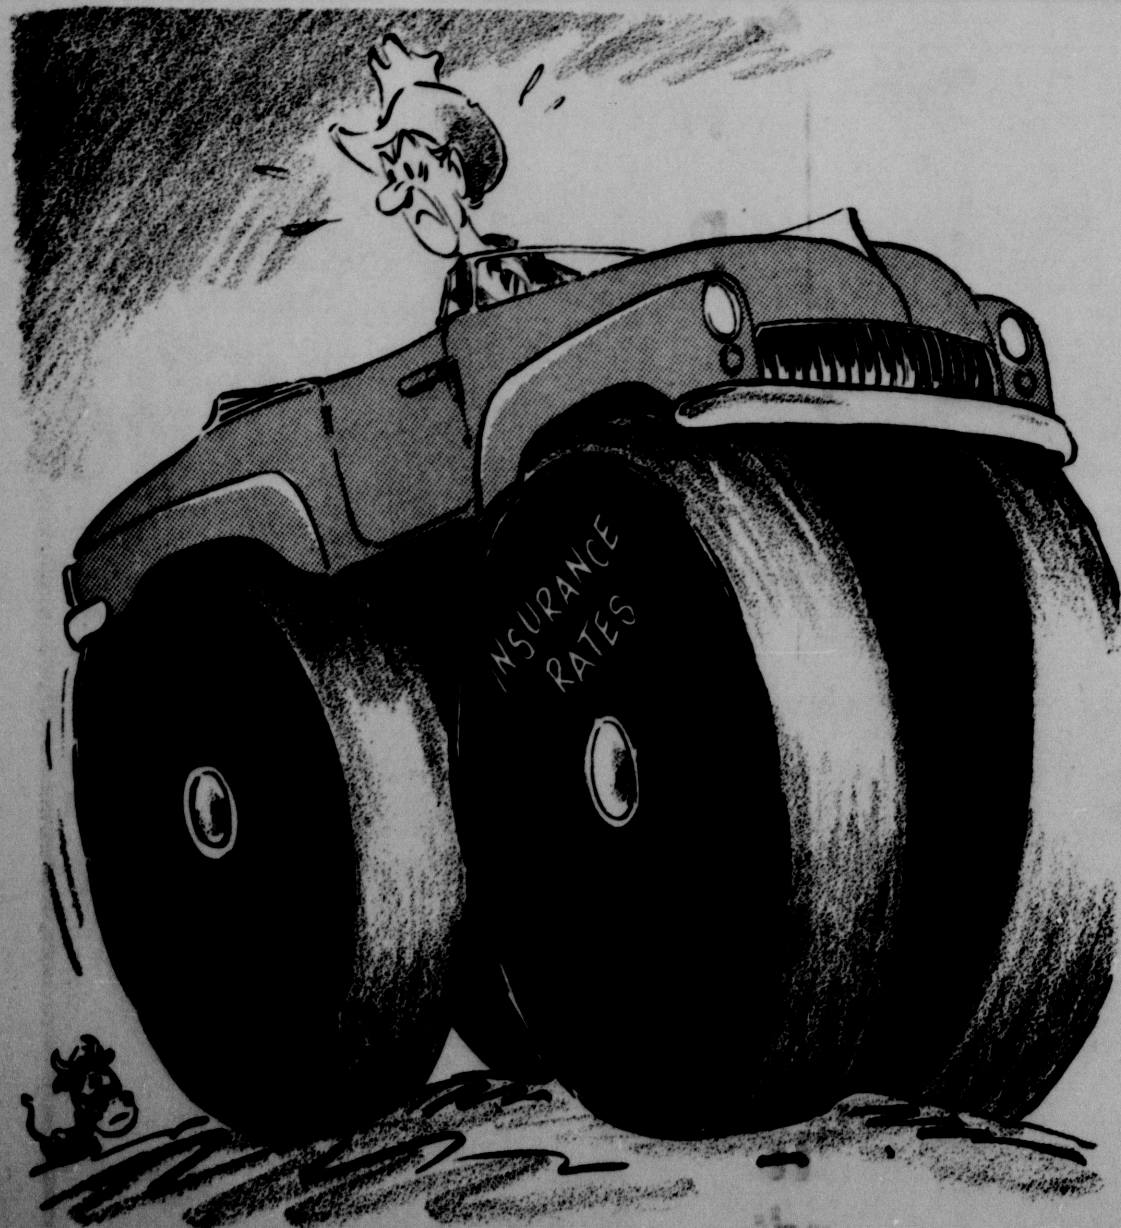

He also ran as a member of the 4-mile relay team of Abilene Christian at the Texas Relays last season. Paul has a 19:34 mark on the four-mile cross country course.

Paul returns to Abilene Christian this fall as a junior. His ambition, like all milers, is to run the 4-minute mile, either during his junior or senior year. He will, too.

How much does he run? From June 1, 1969 to June 1, 1970, Paul ran 2825 miles. Pretty tough training schedule, isn't it?

DOWNTOWN CAMERON

OLD JEFFERSON -- The courtyard at the old Excelsior House was the scene of many parties when Jefferson was one of Texas' largest cities more than 100 years ago.

Excelsior House Echoes Jefferson's Brash Era

JEFFERSON
On autumn nights, cool winds whip rustling leaves from giant oaks and shower them on the porch of the Excelsior House where almost 100 years ago Presidents Grant and Hayes were among the hotel's patrons.

The sound of leaves falling, almost imperceptibly like rain, seems to echo in the imagination, conjuring up nights long ago when Jefferson was a brash and booming riverport.

On many of those nights music and laughter filled the grand ballroom of the Excelsior House as men in waistcoats and their ladies in hooped skirts danced for hours.

A young and beautiful girl among them was called "Diamond Bessie" Moore because of the splendor of the jewels she wore.

But the jewels were gone that winter afternoon when townsmen found her shot dead and left lying in the snow and decaying leaves of the nearby forest.

There followed the murder trial of her lover, Abe Rothchild. The trial dragged on for seven years until finally a jury proclaimed Rothchild "not guilty" and he fled Jefferson a breath ahead of angry citizens.

It is told that Rothchild was never known to be seen again in Jefferson. But years later a stranger appeared in town and went to the grave of Diamond Bessie. He found the grave well attended.

Surprised, the stranger turned to an aged caretaker and asked, "This girl had a bad reputation. Why does the town take such care of her grave?"

The caretaker approached the stranger, according to the legend, and replied, "Because she was some mother's daughter."

Each spring, the Jessie Allen Wise Garden Club recreates the Rothchild murder trial as part of its annual historical pilgrimage.

It evolved from the "Queen Mab" balls, Jefferson's form of Mardi Gras, held in the 1870's when the town had a population of 35,000 and was the second largest city in the state.

During the pilgrimages of today, visitors tour Jefferson's past, including eight white-columned mansions of the Civil War era. Townspeople in ante-bellum costumes stroll the grounds of these homes.

The flow of visitors swells on the days of the pilgrimage, but Jefferson offers a continuing attraction and a fascination for travelers who bring their imaginations with them.

Breakfast, southern style, at the Excelsior House is in itself enough reason to visit the old town.

Diners are seated at glass-topped tables in a cozy breakfast room with a view of a fountain and a courtyard where Grant once stood on the scarred bricks.

It is the only meal served at the hotel. But the ham, eggs, grits and hot breads are a delight.

For dinner there is Roy Butler's Riverfront Restaurant, housed in a 100-year-old brick warehouse.

The barbecue is brought to a delicious turn in a huge earthen oven like those that soldier-of-fortune Butler found in China in the years before he and his wife moved to Jefferson.

Visitors tour railroad financier Jay Gould's private railroad, "Atlanta," named for the Greek goddess of speed.

The women of the garden club discovered the car lost on an obscure siding at nearby Pitner's Junction. They restored it, just as they did the 110-year-old Excelsior House, and placed it across the brick street opposite the hotel.

Gould, of course, is a part of Jefferson's past.

In the days when stern-wheelers churned up Big Cypress Bayou to make Jefferson a leading inland port, Gould came to town and proposed bringing his railroad to the area. Councilmen scoffed at the thought of steam engines competing with the riverboats.

They rejected Gould's proposal, infuriating the millionaire. He left Jefferson, cursing the town and damning it to oblivion.

Gould took the railroad to other cities, and soon afterward Jefferson became landlocked when Big Cypress Bayou all but disappeared and the riverboats were useless.

The town's population subsequently shrunk to its present 3,000. But much of the past remains today for visitors to experience.

The Jefferson Historical Museum, the old red brick federal building, has been called a "stately monument to the grandeur and opulence of Jefferson's golden era."

Displays include more than 5,000 items from Sharp and Spencer carbines of the Civil War to a rough copy of the Declaration of Independence as it was drafted by Thomas Jefferson, for whom the town was named.

The museum is in the same block as the Excelsior House, the hub of much that was Jefferson.

One treat is a fringe-top surrey ride conducted, perhaps, by

Fred Fegan.

Tall and graying at more than 75, Fegan knew the town when it was a flourishing city. Fegan, the son of a slave, remembers Jefferson in its glory and tells visitors of the Old Schuler House:

"There's the widow's walk on top. When the boats were running the ladies used to stand there looking for their husbands, hoping they'd come back. Some didn't."

Located on U.S. Highway 59, 154 miles east of Dallas, Jefferson is an island from the past amid the East Texas forests.

It is framed by Lake of the Pines and mysterious Caddo Lake, said to have been born at midnight in the eruption of an earthquake.

Jefferson's past was a long time ago, but much of the flavor remains, brought back in the song of the wind and leaves falling.

AUSTIN
Texas Department of Agriculture Commissioner John C. White has announced plans for the second annual turkey promotion for July and August.

"Anytime is Turkey time" is the slogan for the program which is directed by the marketing division of the TDA as a part of its Texas Agriculture products program, now in its second successful year.

Informing Texans of turkey's value as a dish for all seasons is the goal of the promotion. During last year's operation, turkey producers and processors set an all-time high in sales, and they are anxious to cooperate again with Commissioner White's forces.

WORSHIP IN CHURCH

A big old-fashioned water wheel! Round and round it turns and oh, how slowly! Sure, water below the wheel has gone but water above the wheel still possesses potential power that may influence the lives of millions. It is that way with human life, too. The gigantic wheel keeps turning while life keeps passing. "The wheels of the gods grind slowly but they grind exceedingly well." One generation comes while another goes... 3,600 souls go over the wheel every hour... 86,000 every day. Stop right where you are! Think of your opportunity! Act immediately! You have only a little moment to make your contribution to the sum total of human goodness. Just what are you going to do about it, sir? Perhaps you should join the increasing millions who are finding solution to their problems through regular church attendance. You may also find a better way to expend your potential for good.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Dr. Bertram S. Brown, Director
National Institute of Mental Health

What Is Mental Health?

There are many definitions of mental health. But perhaps the most appropriate one is a combination of several concepts.

These concepts stress the positive state of mental and emotional well-being.

Thus, among the basic indicators of what mental health is are the following:

First, a person's understanding and acceptance of himself;

Second, his perception of the world around him and his relationships with other people; and

Third, his ability to handle crisis and stress.

Present-day psychiatry proposes that mental health, then, is the ability to live one's fullest potential as a creative and productive human being.

To be competent in the technological world of today and tomorrow, an individual must have the social skills to be able to do three things: to love and be loved, to work, and to play.

Through the realization of these, it should be possible to achieve that measure of satisfaction from life that is both a contribution to the lives of others and to one's own fulfillment.

It is, therefore, no longer enough just to search for the causes after an illness has developed. Prevention is the watchword.

Community mental health centers, beginning in 1963.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our appreciation for the many kindnesses extended our family during the illness and death of our mother, Mrs. Hattie P. Gregory. Especially do we want to thank Rev. Coleman, Dr. Hollister and the nurses at Newton Memorial for their special efforts and acts of kindness.

CARD OF THANKS

We want to express our thanks and appreciation to all of our friends who were so thoughtful and kind to us during our recent sorrow. We also wish to thank them for the food, flowers and cards and words of sympathy.

health centers that are now found in every part of the United States.

Everybody can have these services; they are not restricted to the wealthy, or to the poor, or to any special group. They are community services, organized in such a way that they can become available to the entire population of any community—rural, urban, industrial, or suburban.

As adequate and accessible services for prevention and treatment of mental illness become available and are delivered to people everywhere in the nation, the true meaning of mental health should become clearer—and more attainable—for each of us.
